"Lewis Lockwood has written a biography of Beethoven in which the hours that Beethoven spent writing music-that is, his methods of working, his interest in contemporary and past composers, the development of his musical intentions and ideals, his inner musical life, in short-have been properly integrated with the external events of his career.

Lewis Lockwood - Wikipedia

In my opinion, Beethoven is the greatest music composer of all time, and his symphonies are all excellent. So, when I saw that this book was available from the author of a recent excellent biography on the life of Beethoven, I jumped at the opportunity to read and savored every minute. Each chapter of the book covers one of Beethoven's symphonies.

In this brilliant portrayal of the world's most famous composer, Lewis Lockwood interweaves his discussion of Beethoven's life and works while placing them in their historical and artistic contexts. Here the music looms larger than the life-the composer dominates the man-but both are discussed at length.

Tells you everything you need to know about Beethoven. Lockwood writes with clear and informative prose. The book is also very well researched and organized. The only reason I have to knock off a half star is because I wish Lockwood would have spent more time talking about Beethoven's personal life. The book is about 75% music, 25% bio.
