Passion & Purpose | John Coleman

Passion and purpose are distinct. Passion is about emotions, the motivation and what makes us feel good, i.e. "do what you love". Purpose is the reason, or the why behind what we do, primarily for others, i.e. "do what contributes." Where passion can be all over the place, wild and exciting, purpose is much more focused.

The Difference Between Purpose and Passion - WeSpire

Passion and clear purpose served Caleb well for his many years. And these two qualities are still an essential part of great leadership. For Caleb, that purpose and its consequent passion were transcendent. They were greater than any product of promotion or profit. He found a life-consuming passion: “I followed the Lord my God wholeheartedly.”
